

ABSTRACT

5 A television antenna formed from a pair of generally sinuous antenna arms extending outwardly from a common central axis and arranged opposite each other. The antenna arms do not interleave or touch each other. A reflector provides a separation distance between the reflector and the pair of antenna arms.